

Creating Bridges for Healthy Communities

... is a special project that builds meaningful connections between the South Asian community and child, youth and family services in York Region.

Key Partners:

Social Services Network (SSN):

Delivers culturally and linguistically appropriate direct services to the South Asian community through partnerships developed with other service providers.

Blue Hills Child and Family Centre and Kinark Child and Family Services:

Both provide a range of services for children, youth and families including: parenting strategies, child behaviour management, individual and family counseling, treatment for depression and anxiety, psychological assessment and more.

Working together to ensure access to culturally relevant information, services and resources.
